A DESIGN FOR A BLENDED LEARNING FORMAT GOES ONLINE

Still in development, but already ready for testing in the draft version: The DEAL PLATTFORM is online.
Designed as a modular learning approach, the first two modules - Competency Based Learning + Validation and Facilitation of the Design Thinking Approach - are ready to be tested in a first form.

The platform is designed not only to function as an e-learning system, but also to offer the possibility to develop and visualise one's own e-portfolio and to validate it with the validation software LEVEL5 according to the EQF system and the LEVEL5 approach.

DEAL PLATFORM

In the coming months, there will initially be an internal piloting to test the developed concepts and approaches. Later, however, access will be open to all and will only require registration in the system.
The platform offers a fully-fledged learning environment that combines learning, validation and documentation in three areas (LMS, LEVEL5 and e-portfolio).

Thus, the system offers learning technologies for different target groups of AE professionals and adult learners, but also for educators who want to qualify, but also for those who are looking for solutions to challenges in practical learning situations or simply want to offer new attractive learning and training fields.

Stay tuned and follow the development of the DEAL project!
